BELL & GOSSETT ANNOUNCES 4TH QUARTER 2008
EDUCATIONAL SEMINARS IN CHICAGO AREA

MORTON GROVE, Illinois, September 3, 2008— Bell & Gossett, a leader in education for the hydronic heating and plumbing industries, has announced its training course schedule for the fall and winter of 2008. The free training seminars are offered at Bell & Gossett's Little Red Schoolhouse education center in Morton Grove, Illinois, a suburb of Chicago. The seminars are open to engineers, contractors and facility maintenance professionals.

The three-day seminars cover a wide range of important topics. Tailored to various industry occupations, courses run Monday through Wednesday. Upon completion of the courses, CEU credits are awarded to graduates.

The year-end courses include:

- Service and Maintenance (October 6-8, 2008)
- Modern Hydronics: Basic Seminar (October 20-22, 2008)

- Modern Hydronics: Advanced Seminar (November 3-5, 2008)
- Design and Application (November 17-19, 2008)
- Large Chilled Water Systems Design (December 15-17, 2008)

The Bell & Gossett education center is located just outside of Chicago, convenient to O'Hare Airport and major highways. Students who attend the Schoolhouse seminars are just minutes away from all that Chicago has to offer - sporting events, restaurants, shows, shopping and many other attractions.

For complete descriptions and enrollment information for the Little Red Schoolhouse educational seminars, visit <http://schoolhouse.itt.com>. Seminar reservations are made through Bell & Gossett Representatives. For the name and phone number of a local Representative, visit www.bellgossett.com.

Since 1954, more than 55,000 engineers, contractors and installers have been trained in the Little Red Schoolhouse's fully equipped learning center, while another 135,000 professionals have received training through B&G's 'traveling classroom program.' Graduates of the Little Red Schoolhouse can be found in every state in the U.S. as well as Europe, the Middle East, Asia, Latin America, and Australia.
